

Dear LIMOCOIN community for INDIA,

At this time of sparkling celebrations, I would like to wish you all a happy Diwali. May the light of Diwali illuminate your homes with joy and happiness. May the glow of candles and firecrackers dispel the darkness, bringing about the triumph of light over darkness, of good over evil.

On this sacred day, I would particularly like to salute all those who support Limocoin in India. You are the bold pioneers who saw the promise in blockchain technology and persevered to integrate it into Indian society. This integration has not been a short journey, it has been marked by countless challenges to overcome, many obstacles to overcome.

To the developers who coded late into the night, to the investors who bet on this new technology, to the regulators who opened their minds to a new way of economic thinking, even to the sceptics who asked tough but necessary questions - you all played a part in making this financial revolution happen. And it was your unwavering belief in the potential of Limocoin that enabled its successful integration.

During this Festival of Lights, I hope you will remember that you are part of something bigger, a family, Liyepimal family. You are changing the economic landscape of the nation and, by extension, the globe. You burn with the energy of a Diwali candle, lighting the way for those still in darkness.

As we welcome a new Hindu year with Diwali, I hope you will continue to support Limocoin in its journey to become an influential force in the Indian economy. May we all shine together in this journey towards progress.

Once again, a Happy Diwali to all, may this festive season bring light, joy, prosperity and success to your homes and lives.

Yours sincerely
